

PROFESSOR HARLENE HAYNE
INTERVIEWING CHILDREN IN LEGAL CONTEXTS

VIDEO QUESTIONNAIRE

1. Based on recent research, what interview technique is likely to lead to children being able to provide greater amounts of information without necessarily reducing accuracy?
2. If children overhear adults or children talking about a fictitious event will they spontaneously report the (fictitious) event, even when asked free recall questions? What other features might accompany such reporting?
3. Are body maps useful in facilitating children's reports of touch? Why or why not?